Later as, when the boys came home, controlled, many of them, with the problem of starting life anew, seeing about them the hopelessness of the untrained manet, seeing again the accommany of the men who know, the resolution to make the most of themselves was strengthened and so it is that is our colleges this year are thousands of men who, but for the war, would be lost in the world at strife. They are preparing themselves for leadership. They are preparing themselves for leadership. They are preparing themselves for leadership. The colleges report that the increased attendance is not contined to men, but that the aumber of women enterlied hreaks all records. This estimation, too, is credited to be awakening power of the war. The women of the mail were given their chance when the men were over there. They are flut there was something in life for them heades drudgery. They, too, decided to build for the future. With ever increasing opportunities opening for women, thousands of them decided to gain for themselves the best advantages persible in order to take their places alonguids the men in the world of learning.

The government and the states are encouraging the ambition for college education among the discharged service men. Winconsin offers $30 a month to discharged service men. Winconsin offers $30 a month to discharged men, who enter any institution of harming in the state. The offer applies to women war workers as well as men, and holds roced for four years. LAUGH, and the world laught with you; Weep, and you weep alone; For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth, But has troubles enough of its own. Sing, and the hills will answer; Sigh, it is lost on the air. The echoes bound to a joyful sound, But shrink from voicing care.

REJOICE, and men will seek you; Grieve, and they turn and go. They want full measure of all your pleasure, But they do not need your wor. Be glad, and your friends are many; Be sad, and you lose them all. There are none to decline your nectared wine, But alone you must drink life's gall.

CEAST, and your halls are crowded; Fast, and the world goes by. Succeed and give, and it helps you live, But no man can help you die, There is room in the halls of pleasure For a large and lordly train, But one by one we must all file on Through the narrow aisles of pain.
